Dr. Mather Returned.

Dr. Arthur Mather returned home from St. Louis on Saturday last after spending a busy week in the interest of the new church building which the Methodist congregation is trying soon to erect. While in St. Louis, Dr. Mather was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. George M. Moore, who also entertained a number of old friends in his honor.

Dr. Mather preached on Wednesday night last at the Grand Avenue Methodist Church, was invited guest of George Warren Brown, Esq., to a luncheon given by him at the Mercantile Club on Thursday noon in honor of Dr. J. E. T. Dickey, W. C. Williams, and was entertained dinner on Friday at the palatial residence of the Scruggs family by Mr. C. O. and Miss Sadie Scruggs, brother and sister of the late Richard M. Scruggs, St. Louis' millionaire philanthropist and benefactor, and sang one of Dr. Mather's intimate friends.

Married at Morgansfield.

Judge J. E. Lilly officiated at a double wedding Wednesday evening. The contracting parties were Mr. Wm. M. Martin and Miss Mary H. Nunn and Mr. Linton Waskom and Miss Anna L. Martin, all of Sullivan — Morganfield Sun.

These young people are well known here and were recently the guests of Mr. R. L. Nunn, the uncle of Miss Mary Nunn, one of the brides, who is a daughter of the late J. J. Nunn of Sullivan and is a petite blonde of the French type. Miss Martin is also quite a beauty but of the blonde type. The grooms are farmers and said to be young men of excellent character.

A Line From Chairman Towery.

To the members of the Stemming District Tobacco Association.

Owing to the dry condition of tobacco it was thought best by the District Board not to receive tobacco on the 19th as was first published. However keep yourself in readiness for the opening day.

The necessary instructions have already been forwarded to most of you requesting of you to pick your tobacco well if you want to receive the best price. Do not try to put off tobacco on the Association in bad condition. We must abide by the rules and regulations laid down by our Association.

Our present sales of the 1910 crop proves beyond a doubt to the tobacco world that we are recognized throughout the world for fairness, equity and justice. Hoping that you will give heed to this article, I remain yours,

Aaron Towery, Chairman of County Board.

Crittenden County Jury Summoned to Lyon Circuit Court.

Last Wednesday the Sheriff of Lyon county, arrived and brought orders from the Judge of Lyon Circuit Court to summon a jury in the county to try the four men accused of the murder of Axion Cooper, near Lamaseo last summer at a picnic. Sheriff Joel A. C. Pickens proceeded to execute the orders of the court and many of the men upon whom the summons was served, left for the Capital of Lyon that day some going by rail from here, some from Crayne, Mexico and Fredonia. Many rode through the country and others took the boat at Dyettburg so that when Judge McHenry called Court to order and the sheriff called their names all were there twenty-five in number.

The Courier Journal of Saturday had the following telegram from Eddyville.

Venue From Crittenden County Proves Sufficient.

Eddyville, Ky., Dec. 15.—The case of the Commonwealth against Roy Merrick, "Spunk" Creekmur, Vilas Mitchell and Fraud Murph, charged with the murder of Axion Cooper, was called at the convening of court here this morning. The Commonwealth and the defense promptly announced ready. The special venue of jurors from Crittenden county, consisting of seventy-five names, reported all available for trial. The entire list was nearly exhausted before the jury was completed at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon.

The statements of the prosecution and defense were finished and the witnesses for the plaintiff had been examined when court adjourned.

The jury from Crittenden Co. is composed altogether of farmers.

The prosecution charges that Cooper was killed as a result of a conspiracy on the part of these four defendants and others, and that Mitchell, Murphy, Merrick and Creekmur each actually shot him after he had been knocked down with brass knucks and was pleading with them not to shoot him again since he was already mortally wounded.

Four witnesses, all of whom testified they heard Cooper's dying statement accusing the four defendants, were heard. They were Robert and Wallace Merrick, Noah Oliver and Mrs. Lovie Roberts. Mrs. Roberts also testified she saw Roy Merrick shoot and Oliver swore he saw Murphy shoot at Cooper.

Handsome New Home

In The Country.

E. H. Holtclaw has just completed for Jas. Alex Hill, a handsome seven room and hall frame residence on his farm about two miles from this city. It is story and a half and has nice stairway, closets, porches, front veranda, and all modern conveniences. Mr. and Mrs. Hill are among our very best citizens and we congratulate them on their new home and hope they may live long to enjoy it.

What Says The Clock

What says the clock when it strikes one?

"Watch," says the clock, "O, watch little one!"

What says the clock when it strikes Two?

"Love God, little darling, for he loves you."

And tell me, tell me softly, what it whispers at Three?

Is it "Suffer little children to come unto me?"

Then come, gentle lamb, come and wander no more—

'Tis the voice of the shepherd that calls you at Four.

And O, let your young heart with gladness revive.

When it echoes as sweetly, "God bless thee!" at Five.

And remember, at Six, with fading of day,

That your life is a vapor that passeth away.

What says the clock when it strikes Seven?

"Of such is the kingdom, the kingdom of heaven."

And what says the clock when it strikes Eight?

"Strive, strive to enter in at the beautiful gate."

And louder still louder, it call us us at Nine,

And its song is, "My child, give me that heart of thine."

Then sweet be your voices responsive at Ten,

"Hosanna in the highest! hosanna! amen!"

And loud let the chorus ring on till Eleven,

"Praise, praise to the Father, the Father in heaven!"

While the deep strokes of midnight this watchword shall bring,

"Lo, these are my jewels, these, these, saith the King."

A SIMPLE QUESTION

Marion People Are Requested To Honestly Answer This

Is not the word of a representative citizen of Marion more convincing than the doubtful uter-ances of people living every-this:

Thomas L. Hilliard, Railroad

St., Marion, Ky., says: Doan's

Kidney Pills came to my relief

after I had suffered a great deal and had spent much money for medicines without receiving any benefit. Two years ago I was taken with an attack of typhoid fever and upon recovering found that my kidneys were badly disordered. The pains in my back were so severe that frequently I had to leave my work and lie down for several hours. There was a constant desire to pass the kidney secretions and I was obliged to arise

several times during the night.

The kidney secretions were also highly colored and the passages were attended with pain. I often became dizzy and dark spots floated before my eyes. A relative, hearing about my condition, advised me to give Doan's

Kidney Pills a trial and I provided a supply at Haynes & Tay-

During the first week in January, beginning the 3rd and lasting through the 6th the Agricultural College of the State University at Lexington, has arranged to observe "Farmers' Week." This will be the best opportunity ever offered for farmers and stockmen of the State to avail themselves of the benefits of the Agricultural College.

The swine, beef cattle, horses, dairy cattle and sheep breeders' association of the State will hold their annual conventions there on successive days, each devoting a half day to speeches, business, etc., and the other half to judging work. The State Corn Growers' Association, the State Corn Show and Corn School will also be held at the College during the week. Liberal premiums are offered in the various classes in the corn show and equally liberal premiums for farm butter, farm milk and for certified milk. The unexcelled stock of the College

Farm and of the magnificent Elmendorf Farm will be freely used for the judging work, etc.

Rates one fare plus twenty-five cents for the round trip have been secured over all roads. The best authorities in the country on the various classes of stock, etc., have been secured for the week. All is absolutely free.

A pleasanter or more profitable week for the farmers of Kentucky could not possibly be arranged. Particulars, premium list, etc., may be obtained by dropping a card to

DAIRYING IN THE SOUTH

Students of agricultural condition in the Southern states agree that there is no better section in the country for profitable dairying and stock raising. The cattle tick pest has been a serious drawback and has not a little to do in discouraging dairying in the South. With this pest eradicated by the aggressive work of state and federal authorities there is now no reason why the farmers of the South should not appreciate the advantages of dairying.

Some of the finest dairy herds in the county are found in the extreme Southern states and dairying is more profitable there than in the colder sections where dairying is so largely carried on.

There are several reasons for this. Cattle need not be housed so expensively and for so many months in the year. Pasturage is cheaper and forage crops grow abundantly. Cottonseed meal, one of the cheapest and most efficient dairy feeds, is produced in abundance, and markets are unsurpassed.

Perhaps the greatest benefit that can come to the South through the promotion of dairying is the increased fertility of the land. The land will not only produce greater yields but increase in land values must follow.

Dairying consistently followed by the farmers of a community always increases land values, this is due not only to increased productiveness of the soil, but to the fact that the business itself is a very remunerative one.

The Southern farmer who is anxious to improve his circumstances, and who may not be fully convinced of the benefits of dairying, should ascertain the truthfulness of the above claims before deciding his course. He can secure such information from the U. S. Department of Agriculture or from any of the state experimental stations.

The diary cow will do more for the farmers of the South than she has done for the farmers of the North because conditions there are even more favorable for dairying.

Southern statesman and others in position to do so should appreciate this great truth and be willing at all times to preach the gospel of the diary cow to the Southern farmer.

ENGINEER SCALDED

Engineer J. H. Shettleworth was painfully scalded last Friday morning at Henderson, when a lubricating glass burst, under the pressure of the steam. He was coming South on No. 55, and was forced to abandon his engine and return to his home in this city.—Princeton Leader Dec. 23th.

THE REAL REASON

By ALICE BROWNING

Winner of the First Prize in The Courier Short Story Contest

Imagine that in the Creation when God made man, he intended there should be no old maids, hence he made no provision for her abiding place; but, through the slipping of some egg she slipped in, and now the earth has quite a burden of unclaimed ribs. Even Evansville, that practical, progressive, up to date city, has a full quota of unmarried women: perhaps from choice, but, as this is an open confession, I must say there was no choosing in my case.

I am a bachelor girl who has had her love affair in Evansville. Some may call me a spinster, but I toil, I do not spin. I am an old maid, for I am no longer young. And it has been my experience that it is better to be laughed at because you are not married than not to be able to laugh because you are married.

After I passed my twenty-fifth year I was no longer considered an eligible young lady for social gayeties; in fact, I was laid on the shelf, and only brought out when my married friends desired a filler-in. I can not say this was always pleasant to me for some times I filled in with a father of six motherless children or with a callow youth of eighteen or some poor relative who has to be kept in the background.

However, on one of these occasions, when we picnicked at Mesker's I met a rather nice appearing bachelor with a face of forty summers and a bank account that looked good. We saw each other frequently at the houses of mutual friends and soon it was rumored among the mesdames who communicated it to their husbands, that I had a "come-hither" look in my eye, and that the gentleman in question was not backward in responding.

It is strange how a change came over the spirit of my dreams just then. I brightened up my hats with colors. I took on a more youthful style in dress; I felt younger than my sixteen year old niece, and I was just bubbling over with joy at my good luck, when all this exuberance was cut short by wisdom tooth that began to sit up and take notice, and the most exasperating of it all was that it did its hardest thumping just when the gentleman in question seemed most likely to be nearing a matrimonial muse.

If we promenaded down to Sunset, if we drove out to Kratzville, if we motored up to Newburg, that tooth let it be known that it was on deck and handy. If we talked on the moral law, the divorce question, the filtering plant, or the museum building, that tooth invariably assisted to the end of the conversation.

So, for the peace of my mind and the quietus of my conscience, I waited upon the dentist who assured me that he could save that tooth and preserve the contour of my profile; this being very essential to one of my age and prospect.

Now, I think of all the preliminary arrangements for funerals, weddings, inaugurations and christenings, or tours around the world, there is nothing so minute in detail or so excruciatingly irritating as the fumbling of a tooth practitioner in making ready to doctor a tooth; but, after he had washed his hands, pared his nails, placed me in the chair, got out some towels, screwed up the chair, lowered the chair, washed his hands, pared his nails, looked in the mirror, looked in my mouth, spat out the window, poked his finger in my eye, told me the time, washed his hands and pared his nails, he settled to business.

He ground and he ground, and

I groaned and I groaned. He pounded and pounded, and I moaned and I moaned. This performance continued for an indefinite time, when he unscrewed the chair, lowered the chair, washed his hands, took hold of my chin, carefully looked in, saying, "There you are—good for another twenty-five years."

Home I sped, assured in my own mind that the rotundity of face I so much desired would be mine for years to come. But, Alas! No longer than I had dropped to sleep when that inexorable molar began to whisper discontented remarks about "uneasy lies the head that wears a crown," or "gone but not forgotten" Sometimes the strains of "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp," were being thumped in A-minor on the snare drum, and again I felt like a Philistine overthrown by the right jaw. And such dreams of horror and fury unabated! At last I concluded I would arise in all my might and see the dentist, so I called at Public Service Company, took out an aeroplane and went by Bayard Park, on arriving saw the Man-in-Question discussing politics with a ward healer. Not feeling inclined to talk just then, I circled down to Sunset Park and there found the Man-in-Question trying to move the museum with a jack-knife; not caring to enter into a conversation here, I wheeled my biplane to Oak Summit and behold! there sat the Man-in-Question holding a girl's hand. I was so dimly bound that I closed my carburetor shut, and mounted high above the tree-tops, discarded my dirigible and swooped into a Washington avenue car, with only a bag of gumdrops in my hand I did not dare eat.

I sat in the southwest corner, secluded from the impudent gaze of eager inquirers, holding my own head with my own hand and pondering on the vicissitudes of spinsterhood, when who should be seated directly in front of me but the Man-in-Question. And how changed! Why his nose was as large as a mango, and his eyes bulged out like door-knobs and his mouth was like a Mars canal, and all his teeth were put in backwards, and his neck looked as if it had worn out three bodies, and all at once in a flash, he opened his big eyes wide, he snapped together his mouth, he puffed out his big jaws, he rolled the skin up on his bald head and blew that big nose so hard that I bounced through that car window, screaming, "Make way for Liberty."

But when I awoke I was chasing all around my bedroom searching for a bottle of toothache medicine. Having found it I proceeded to look in the mirror, and behold! it was I who had the egg eyes, the broad mouth, the swelled head and the big nose. I have been raised a God-fearing woman but if that dentist had passed my way just then I would have shaken that clove bottle at him.

At last the stars went down and the sun came up, and so did the family, offering sympathy, each in his own good way, but hastily retreating with an increasing smile to a boisterous laugh when out of my presence.

The morning wore away. The dentist had other patients; I had none. Noontime came; I slept not, neither did I eat; hours were days to me. The afternoon was like unto the dark ages.

The sun went down and the stars came out, but I had no pleasure in lovely night, for I still held on to that sizable face, which now had the appearance of being upholstered in a motley red, with indiscrimination trimming of bottle green. In my sorrow, I cared not for feasting but had a tendency toward fasting. Man had but few charms for me then, unless he carried the forces as a mascot. Bank books were no more to me than last year's Almanac. Friends of my childhood seemed beckoning me to the Elysium of rest.

The water of Sad Lethe poured over the shifting sands of sorrow, and I faint would have been left alone in my glory except for the fact that my relentless tooth kept up a vigorous campaign.

At eight o'clock the door bell rang, Ah, 'tis the dentist sure. I ran to the landing, calling, "Jane bring him right up." Jane did. The dentist? No 'twas the Man-in-Quesiion.

Free Child's Remedy

What mother is not looking for something that will help her children in the little ills of life, something for the stomach trouble and the bowel trouble? Long ago she probably has become convinced that a child cannot readily swallow pill or a tablet, and that to "break them in half and crush them" is an annoyance; that usually they work too drastically, and are nauseating and too powerful for the little one's stomach.

Any mother who is in the trouble of sending her name and address can obtain a free sample bottle of a remedy that thousands of other mothers are using and now paying for. This remedy is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup, Peppermint, and the offer of free sample bottles to mothers who have not yet used it. Having used it and convinced yourself that it is what you want you can obtain it in the future of your druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle. Just as many others are doing with the sample bottle simply to convince you of its merits. It is the best way to begin on it. Mrs. L. Davis of 187 W. Harrison street, Chicago, and Mrs. Mary Belford, 1710 Coke street, Louisville, Ky., both started with free sample bottles and now they write that they have never been without a bottle in the house since.

It is undoubtedly a great family remedy, as it is adapted to all ages, being mild and pleasant to take and yet thorough. It is especially the ideal remedy for children and old folks, who need something pure, mild and natural. It has the advantage of being a thorough laxative and yet contains no tonics. Use it for the most stubborn constipation, Indigestion, Liver trouble, sick headache, sour stomach and such complaints with a guarantee that it will cure.

Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family, writing to the manufacturer. It is the best way to obtain a free sample bottle. I explain your case in a letter and he will reply to you in detail. For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card or otherwise. For either request the doctor's address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, R. 500 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

THE OLD RAG CARPET

(Mina Irving in New York Sun)

Oh, well I remember the home of my childhood, The sitting room opened on Sunday alone. The big room sofa upholstered in horsehair, The little old organ so wheezy of tone, The green paper shades that hung at the windows, The round braided rug that was laid at the door, The album, the vases, the white cotton tidies, And the breadths of rag carpet that covered the floor— The gayly striped carpet, the old-fashioned carpet, The cherished rag carpet that covered the floor. It was woven not only of linen and woolen, But with fragments of sorrow and romance; The lavender silk that was worn to a wedding, The figured delaine of a maiden's first dance, A baby's pink frock and the weeds of a widow, The blue of the coat that a soldier boy wore, I knew and I loved every strip that was in it, The dear old rag carpet that covered the floor— The good honest carpet, the plain humble carpet, The home-made rag carpet that covered the floor.

Mrs. Love has some good things in Wings, Birds and Plumes. Remember they are going at bargains.

A Wonderful Success.

THE charm of Maude Adams' acting is her personality—as baffling to all as is a perfume. Delicacy, grace, sweetness, sympathy and sensitivity are naturally blended into the effect she desires to produce, and one sees but rarely in her acting as to a spell, without trying to spoil it by seeking the secret of her power.

She was born in Salt Lake City, Utah, in 1872, where her father, whose name was Adams, was in business and her mother an actress in a local amateur company. Her first appearance on the stage was an impromptu affair, however, arranged that she did not study a line and did not even know the play. It was when she was nine months old, when the baby was to appear in "The Lost Child," that she sweetly crowded her way into the curtain and into the audience. Three years later she played "Little Schneider" to K. L.淼's "Fritz" and has tender memories of this large-hearted lover of children.

At San Francisco, where her girlhood was spent after the death of her father, she went to school till at fifteen she joined her mother's company at the Venetian Theatre. A large repertoire and a small company forced her to rapid changes of roles, quick study and to sweep the circle of the emotions.

She had her first success in "The Paymaster," "Men and Women," "All the Girls of Home" and "A Midnight Bell"; but not until 1892, as John Jay, the leading lady in "The Masked Ball," did she make her great hit. Her first part in this play was a part perilously near the danger line, but one that required a made delicate, dainty and deliciously funny, never crossing the line of vulgarity.

In "The Little Minister" Miss Adams' charming made-up ways, her gentle, winsome, captivated her audiences; in Juliet her gentle, winsome, and followed none of the stage traditions, yet it was intensely dramatic. She has quiet tastes, delighting in her home, her books, and her pets. Her soft, sympathetic voice, her genius and her sterling character, which shines itself in all her work, have been the basis of her success.

The Crittenden Record-Press
Marion, Ky., Dec. 22, 1910.

S. M. ENKINS Editor and Publisher.

Entered as second-class matter February 10th at the post office at Marion, Kentucky, under Act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

One Dollar the Year in Advance.

The new Chief Justice is one of the most constant pedestrians in public life. Any good weather day Justice White may be seen, often accompanied by Justices Belmes and Lurton, walking homeward along Pennsylvania avenue. After he has dined Justice White usually takes another long walk. It is a mile-and-a-half from the capitol to his residence.

The great event of the week in Washington was the filling of the high judicial positions by President Taft. His choice for the lofty post of Chief Justice of the United States, Edward Douglass White, of Louisiana, former Confederate soldier and Democrat, was of course a great surprise. Never before had a President chosen for that exalted office a man of a different party than his own. As it was the appointment has been very generally commended. It was the exercise, too, of a privilege which was possessed by but six Presidents before him—George Washington, John Adams, Andrew Jackson, Abraham Lincoln, Ulysses S. Grant and Grover Cleveland. Adverse criticisms have come from partisan politicians and pessimists, but as a rule comments have been in the warmest praise of the President's fine independence and excellent judgment in the choice of a jurist who has the respect and confidence not only of the members of his profession throughout the country but of the public very generally.

The unanimous re-election of Congressman Joseph E. Ransdell of Louisiana, to the Presidency of the National Rivers and Harbors Congress, whose convention last week brought to the National Capitol distinguished men in the business, commercial and professional life of the Country, was a most deserved tribute to a man who has devoted many years of his life to a study of the complex questions growing out of the improvement of our waterways. Mr. Ransdell is next to the ranking member on the minority side of the Rivers and Harbors Committee of the House and is being strongly urged for Chairman of the Committee when the House passes into the control of the democrats. One thing is certain Mr. Ransdell is thoroughly equipped for the place and would be a worthy successor to Col. Alexander the present Chairman and to former Chairman Theodore E. Burton who has been promoted to a seat in the Senate. The seventh Convention of the National Rivers and Harbors Congress was the most successful ever held by this great body of water-way enthusiasts and the high standing of the delegates aided materially in getting the river and harbor bill through the House in record time.

For God's Sake Do Something for The White Slave

We are trying to exterminate the most damnable trust or combine that ever disgraced God's foot stool. (The White Slave Trade.)

It is wealthy, unscrupulous, and the most brutal that human mind can conceive.

We desire to place a book exposing this evil traffic, in every home and especially desirous for the mothers and young ladies to see it.

GOOD FOR BLACKFORD

Blackford held an election Friday, December 2nd, to determine whether or not the city would have a graded school. The vote showed 72 for the graded school and twelve against it.

This is a move in the right direction. No town is what it should be without the best school possible. Nothing adds more to the value of property, or makes a better drawing card for the city as a place to live.

Steps will be taken at once to get the school in operation and make it an ideal place to educate the young.

ACROSS THE RIVER.

Capt. M. Carney, Mayor of Shawneetown and a B. & O. R. R. representative have been across our county of late to see if it will pay them to give us a railroad. If they don't the I. C. people will soon control a road from Eldorado to Marion Ky., and very probably, anyhow.—Jimmy Adams Wednesday shipped 97 turkeys, 250 chix, 63 geese, 14 dux and enough eggs to run three hundred and forty odd dollars, hardly five days receipts—Hardin Era, Cave-In-Rock.

NO MORE CATARRH

Haynes & Taylor Has A Guaranteed Cure That Has Stood The Test Of Time.

Catarrh cures come and catarrh cures go, but HYOMEI continues to cure catarrh and abolish its disgusting symptoms wherever civilization exists.

If you buy HYOMEI outfit for $1.00 and hide it in a dark cupboard it won't cure your catarrh.

If you breathe it daily as directed it will cure your catarrh or it won't cost you a cent, ask Haynes & Taylor.

If you have a hard rubber Hyomei inhaler somewhere around the house, get it out and start at once to forever rid yourself of catarrh.

Haynes & Taylor will sell you a bottle of HYOMEI (liquid) for only 50 cents; start to breathe it and notice how quickly it clears out the air passages and makes the entire head feel fine.

HYOMEI used regularly will cure catarrh, coughs, colds, bronchitis or sore throat. A complete outfit including a hard rubber pocket inhaler costs $1.00. No stomach dosing. Just breathe it. It kills the germs, soothes and heals the inflamed membrane.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. M. A. Asher was born June 19th, 1832. Died Dec. 9th, 1910, at her home in Marion, Ky. She was married to W. H. Asher March 27th, 1849. To this happy union ten children were born, seven girls and three boys.

She was a kind and loving mother and a happy Christian. She passed from earth to Heaven Friday at half past eleven o'clock a.m.

Her husband being dead eight months and four days.

To know her was to love her, she was kind and loving to all and had a kind word for everybody.

Oh! how we miss our dear grandma and grandpa. Our home is left vacant and that know one can fill their places. Oh! how lonesome it will be to us but they have gone on before. We can never call them back but we can go to them and meet them in a bright and happy world above where sorrow and trouble will be no more where sickness shall never enter there.

In her sickness she was ever patient; never a murmur escaped her lips. She was ever ready and willing to go. Our Saviour is ever ready to help us bear our troubles and to wipe away our tears. We trust Him that we may be one united family in Heaven.

She always loved her Bible and taking it for her guide. She sought first the Kingdom of God and many blessings have been added to her lot.

Every thing was done that kind hands could do to heal her suffering but it all in vain. She fell asleep in the arms of Jesus, her husband and two of her children have gone on before, leaving eight children to mourn her loss are as follows:

Mrs. Nancy O'Neal, of near Mattoon; Mrs. Mary Samuels, of Repton; Mrs. Henry Thurmond, of Blackford; Mrs. Belle Lamb, of Blackford; Mrs. Esther Newcom, of Portales, New Mexico; Mrs. Kittie Newcom of Mattoon; J. D. Asher, of Marion; and S. D. Asher, of Shady Grove. Mrs. P. H. O'Neal and W. L. Asher, those two having gone on to rest.

Her remains were laid to rest in the Repton cemetery.

JOSEPH G. CANNON

The Noted Speaker of the House.

JOSEPH G. CANNON, the popular, influential and fearless Speaker of Congress, belongs to the rugged type of American that Lincoln suggests; men of sterling character but with little, humanizing peculiarities showing where their individuality has not been sandpapered and veneered by the conventions of society. He would never be considered a Beau Brummell as regards dress; he is a man of strong likes and dislikes and speaks out without reserve; he uses the italics of mild profanity to emphasize his points in ways that the blue-book of etiquette does not warrant; but he is regarded with affection and esteem by all who know him.

His unassailable integrity, his fearlessness, his frankness, his loyalty, his firmness in the right and his gentle, generous kindness of heart, mark the man and the gentleman.

He was born at Gulford, N. C., in 1836 of sturdy, plain Quaker stock. His family, finding the race question in the South inimical to the spirit of the "Friends," moved to Indiana, where young Joe led the usual life of a pioneer, his education terminating at fourteen when his father died. He then guided the destinies of a country store till at nineteen with $500 of savings he determined to be a lawyer. After being admitted to the bar he became one of the lawyers who in the unformed state of law in Illinois at that time made precedents rather than followed them. His keenness, rough wit, tireless energy and honesty in word and deed when he rode the circuit on horseback, again suggest Lincoln.

In 1878, his ambition for a broader field of honor and usefulness was gratified by his election to Congress, and his record has been so satisfactory that he has been re-elected for every term since, except the brief interim of two years in 1892 and '93. But for this, Mr. Cannon would be the oldest member in continuous service.

Mr. Cannon is one of the most conspicuous men in Congress and his keen wit and clever illustrations often force a point more effectively than a long and elaborate argument. As Chairman of the Committee on Appropriations, he held his position second only to that of the Speaker, and the power in which he exerted his influence reflects the highest honor upon himself and his colleagues. He is acknowledged to be one of the wisest and most prudent legislators in Congress, as well as one of the most popular men

CLOSING OUT SALE!

Q This December the 1st, 1910, having fully decided to get out of business at the first opportunity. I offer for sale my stock of General Merchandise at Crayne, Ky. A nice little railroad town. Anyone wanting to go into the Mercantile business can buy my stock of goods at this place at a great sacrifice.

Q This is the best stand for business in this part of the state, good school and church. No extra taxes and cheap rent. I will sell as a whole part cash, and part time, payments that will enable purchaser to get the money out of the business to meet them.

Q Until we find a buyer for the whole, we will sell any and all Dry Goods, Hats Caps, Shoes for Men, Women and Children.

Children, Overalls, Underwear, Hardware, Etc., in fact everything in the above line at first cost and less. Ready made Clothing at one half the regular retail price. We will continue to carry a line of family Groceries, which we will sell as cheap or a little chearer, than can be bought elsewhere.

Q We will give you the highest market prices for your produce, Cash or Trade. As we haven't space for prices, Come at once and be convinced. We believe anyone buying the whole stock can secure the Post Office as it has always been in this house.

Q Don't wait but come now and buy your Winter supplies and save money.

Your Friend,

OBITUARY

H. N. LAMM, Admir

A few days ago, Clarence Walker, aged eighteen years, the son of Paul and Lillie Walker, formerly of this city, but now residing in Memphis, Tenn., was at work, feeding his press, in the Printing office of J. C. Bourland of this city, when, without a moments warning, he fell forward and "ceased at once to work and live."

Clarence was known to his loved ones as a good and dutiful son; and he will be remembered by many by his winsome smile and general good behavior. "But now he is not." Leaving behind him the memorial of a fragrant life, he now enjoys the mysteries of the life that knows no ending."

There was no sadness of farewell in his going; and, from his testimony, it is certain that

"he hoped to meet his Pilot face to face, when he crossed the bar."

His sorrowing friends miss him; yet, in the truest sense, he is still with them—with them in a way that was never before possible, and with them "forever and for aye."

"So live, that, when thy summons comes to join

The innumerable caravan that moves

To that mysterious realm where each shall take

His chamber in the silent halls of death,

Thou go not like the quarry slave

at night

Scourged, to his dungeon, but sustained and soothed

By an unfaltering trust, approach the grave

Like one who wraps the drapery

of his couch

IN OUR FATHER'S CARE

The ships glide in at the harbor's mouth,
And the ships sail out to sea,
And the wind that sweeps from the sunny South
Is as sweet as sweet can be There's a world of toil and a world of pains,
There's a world of trouble and care:
But O, in a world where our Father reigns
There is a gladness everywhere!
The earth is fair in the breezy morn,
And the toilers sow and reap.
And the fullness comes to the tangled corn
Whether we wake or sleep;
And far on the hills by feet un-trodden
There are blossoms that scent
the air;
For, O, in this world of our Father, God,
There is beauty everywhere!

The babe lies soft on the mother's breast,
And the tide of joy flows in;
He giveth, He taketh, He knoweth best
The Lord to whose home we win
And O, when the soul is with trials tossed,
There is help in the lifted prayer!
For never a soul that loves is lost,
All share in our Father's care,
The ships sail over the harbor
bar,
Away and away to sea;
The ships sail in with the evening star
For the port where no tempest
be:
The harvest waves on the summer hills,
And the bands go forth to reap;
And all is right, as our Father
wills,
Whether we wake or sleep.

HEARTH-FIRE KALEIDOSCOPE

BY O. G. W.

Winter is on the earth; our grief for summer fled,
Kindles the miracles of earth and air,
Of heat and light and blushing colors fair,
On happy rural hearth. Swift sparks are sped
Up the dim shaft. Fire flames involving red, yellow, blue, evanescent green, most rare,
Violet, orange, indigo, are there,
Wreath the plume of embers o'er all
Of picture haunted coals; the charmed eye sees iris tints intensified five-fold.
The rainbow's self, shining in showery sky,
This flame outshines; and precious gems of gold seems melted here.
Ruby and sapphire curl
With amethyst entwined in blazing whirle.

Friend Jenkins: "Often in the still night," I catch myself sitting staring at this wonderful enchanting scene before me, dreaming myself away. I sit and gaze and gaze, my eyes entranced by the dream-glow yonder in the big old-fashioned fire-place, and my soul is borne beyond the glow the great unknown. Only waiting, always waiting for what?

O thou mysterious radiance what art thou? And whence comest thou? Yet why ask? Is it not enough to admire thy beauty and pause there? What strange thoughts such scenes as these produce in one's mind. If one wants to read mystic meanings into the phenomena of nature, now, surely, is the opportunity. It was seemingly an endless phantasmagoria of sparkling color surpassing anything that one can dream. At times one longs to be able to translate such scenes into music. What mighty chords one would require to interpret them. It is a fairy tale from another world, from life to come. Sitting here musing at the midnight hour, alone, with none to distract or make one afraid, where all is silent, Oh, so silent, one can hear the vibrations of one's nerves. Enough! The secret of life is still locked away from the curious eyes of man, and his mind cannot fathom it.

But as long as "seertime and harvest" endure, and the sun sets, and the stars appear,—God reigns and all is well. Sunday Dec. 11th, 1910.

The Music Of The Shoe

(George Birdseye in Boston Transcript)

There is music in the shoe, Telling us just who is who; Light or heavy, quick or slow, Soon may we its meaning know. Shoes there are that anger speak; Shoes that always seem to creak. Children's steps on floor above; Coming footsteps, that we love. There are shoes no sound that make,

Lest the restless patient wake— Music of the silent sole, Under sympathy's control.

There are steps we long to hear, When awaiting someone dear Shoes that whisper, soft and low, "Where thou goest, I will go!"

A Plant That Drinks.

An orchid that has been discovered recently in South America takes a drink whenever it feels thirsty, by letting down a tube into the water. When not in use the tube is coiled up on top of the plant. One hot afternoon, as the discoverer was seated under some brushwood at the side of a lagoon on the Rio de la Plata, he observed near at hand a forest of dead trees that had evidently been choked to death by orchids and climbing cacti. In front of the botanist, stretching over the waters of the lagoon and about a foot above it, was a branch of one of these dead trees. Here and there clusters of common airplants grew on it, and a net work of green cacti twined round it.

Among the orchids the discoverer noted one different from all the rest. The leaves, of lace shape, growing all round the root and radiating from it. From the center or axis of the plant hung a long, slender stem about one-eighth of an inch thick and one-fourth of an inch wide. The lower end of this was in the water to a depth of about four inches.

The botanist at once went over to examine his discovery, and, to his surprise when he touched the plant, the center stem gradually contracted and convulsively rolled itself up in a spiral like a roll of tape. It was found on examination that the stem was a long, slender, flat tube open at the outer end, and connected at the inner end to the roots by a series of hair-like tubes. Subsequently observations disclosed the fact that when the plant was in need of water this tube would gradually unwind till it dipped into the lake. Then it would slowly coil round and wind up, carrying with it quantity of water that the part of the tube which had been immersed contained. When the final coil was made, the water was poured, as it were, directly into the roots of the plant. The coil remained in this position until the plant required more water.

SKY IS ALWAYS BLUE.

When you go to getting troubled. And the world seems upside down.

When misfortune stares upon you

With an awful looking frown; There's a cheerfulness in knowing.

When it's dark for me and you, That the sun is always shining, And the sky is always blue.

When the clouds appear the thickest.

And the daylight seems withdrawn.

And the hopeful joy of living Seems to be entirely gone,

Just remember when it's darkest, Just a little distance through, That the sun is always shining, And the sky is always blue.

So there ain't no use in fretting.

At the hardships that we meet;

For the birds are still a singing And the flowers are just as sweet, And behind the deepest shadow,

There's a heap of promise, too— For the sun is always shining, And the sky is always blue.

That's so.

Love can do such strange and strangely opposite things.

Mother-love grows strong men and women. Also mother-love grows weak men and women. The difference lies in the way the love is manifested. —Erman J. Ridway in The Delineator for January.

GERMS IN

HER SYSTEM

Every Woman Should Read This Advice and the Generous Offer that Goes With it

The number of diseases peculiar to women is such that we believe this space would hardly contain a mere mention of their names, and it is a fact that most of these diseases are of a catarrhal nature. A woman cannot be well if there is a trace of catarrh in her system.

Some women think there is no help for them. We positively declare this to be a mistaken idea. We are so sure of this that we offer to supply medicine absolutely free of all cost in every instance where it fails to give satisfaction, or does not substantiate our claims. With this understanding, no woman should hesitate to believe our honesty of purpose, or hesitate to put our claims to a test.

There is only one way to overcome catarrh. That way is through the blood. You may use all the snuffs, douches or like remedies for years without getting more than temporary relief at best. Catarrh in general is a diseased condition of the system that shows locally most frequently in discharges from mucous membranes. Local treatment should be assisted by internal treatment for the general diseased condition if a complete cure is to be reached. That internal treatment should be scientifically devised and faithfully administered.

Rexall Mucu-Tone is scientifically prepared from the prescription of an eminent physician who for thirty years made catarrh his specialty. This remedy is admirably adapted to the treatment of the catarrhal ailments of women. It purifies and enriches the blood, tends to stop mucous discharges, aids in removing impurities from the system, soothes, heals and strengthens, the mucous tissue, and brings about a feeling of health and strength.

We want you to try Rexall Mucu-Tone on our guarantee. If you are not benefited, or for any reason not satisfied, simply tell us and we will hand back your money. Rexall Mucu-Tone comes in two sizes, 50 cents and $1.00. Remember, you can obtain Rexall Remedies only at The Rexall Store Haynes & Taylor.

WHAT DOES IT MEAN TO YOU?

To the preacher life's a sermon.

To the joker it's a joke;

To the miser life is money.

To the loafer life is rest.

To the lawyer life's a trial.

To the poet life's a song.

To the doctor life's a patient,

That needs treatment right along.

To the soldier life's a battle.

To the teacher life's a school.

Life's a good thing to a graftor.

It's a failure to a fool.

To the man upon the engine

Life's a heavy grade;

It's a gambler to the gambler,

To the merchant it's a trade.

Life's a picture to the artist,

To the rascal it's a fraud.

Life, perhaps, is but a burden

To the man beneath the bed,

Life is lovely to the lover,

To the actor life's a play.

LOVELY COMPLEXION

A Clear Skin And Bright Eyes Are Easy To Get.

All the beauty creams in creation won't improve your complexion if your stomach is out of order.

Balancing of gas and heartburn mean bad food in the stomach. Bad food means bad blood and bad blood means a bad complexion.

Try MI-O-NA stomach tablets for stomach misers, biliousness, dizziness and indigestion. They relieve in a few minutes; they make rich, red blood. They are guaranteed by Hayes & Taylor to cure or money back.

Read what a Kansas woman says.

"I had been doctoring a year for stomach trouble and found nothing that did as much good as MI-O-NA. I only had one bad day and only have relieved all pain in my stomach. MI-O-NA has done a world of good for me when doctors failed." Mrs. Cordelia B. Mann, 297 E. 11th St., Junction City, Kansas.

MI-O-NA stomach tablets are sold by Hayes & Taylor and druggists everywhere for 50 cents a large box.

BELMONT.

Health is very good at present.

J. R. James and M. W. Ethridge left last Thursday for Sikeston, Mo.

Miss Frances Gray visited Mrs. Jesse Guess Thursday night.

Burnie Crider is the champion trapper of our neighborhood.

Misses Myrtle and Ollie Brown were the guests of Mrs. Ellie Guess one day last week.

Dr. Clement was through this section Friday.

Willie Guess will probably make a crop with his father next year.

Several people from here went to Marion Monday, it being County Court day.

Our rural mail carrier left our letter in the mail box two days last week, therefore it was too late for publication, however, we hope to see it come out in this week's paper.

Well, yes, the Farmers' Union pool of tobacco is sold but there is not a farmer who can strip and class his tobacco according to contract. We believe it should have been sold according to quality and not by its length. Some of our very best crops in this vicinity will not average fifteen inches and yet they must go for less than their value because of its length.

Several of Crittenden county boys passed through here enroute to Eddyville Wednesday to help dispense justice in Lyon county.

Mrs. George Jones is still on the sick list.

Mrs. W. K. Oliver went to Fredonia on business Friday.

Last Saturday was Forest Oliver's stock day at Fredonia and our farmers delivered quite a lot of fine hogs at seven cents.

Miss Beulah Oliver is visiting her grandmother, Mrs. W. K. Oliver, this week.

H. C. Rice, Jr., has one of the finest herds of milk cows in this part of the country. He purchased most of them near Lexington, Ky., at a fancy price.

Mrs. Geo. Jones sold the lone turkey gobbler last week in these parts, receiving for him $4.35. What can beat that?

Spurlin Koon has more "goaties" than other boys. He sees her every Sunday.

Frank Millikan, of Palatka, Illinois, the son of his parents is here.

The farmers here pay their part of the taxes and have asked for but little in return, except good government and a law abiding citizenship. But now, they feel like asking the Lord to let us wonderously revive the fiscal court that it will consider favorably a proposition to build a bridge across Free Betty ford.

Wishing a happy Xmas to the Editor of the dear old Record Press and its many interesting readers, we close our last items for today.

W. M. Walker and L. E. Turley have new telephones with the Farmers' Telephone Co.

P. L. Travis and family, of Tribune, were visitors at the home of J. E. Cullen.

There has been many unfounded rumors of smallpox. The facts about them are, that W. J. Dodge's family and Lenard Kemp's family has them, but they are all at Mr. Dodge's two and one-half miles south of this place. They are quarantined and no others are likely to take them. They were carried there by Mr. Dodge's son, Ernest, who had been at work at Wheateroff. They seemed to be in a mild form and no cases dangerous.

Mat Dean, Jr., and Lee Morse spent a few days at J. E. Dean's near Fredonia last week.

That no great success is attained without monumental effort and that humanity is most helped by the individual effort of the persistent, imperfect human himself through his struggle for perfection is exemplified over and over in the life of that great lover of children, Frederick Froebel. His was a life of misunderstanding struggle privation, but ever was he goaded to work on, feeling that he had a special mission though he was not to find it for many years.

Fifty years ago to day the writer was a poor barefoot boy, plodding through streets of Marion this county, begging for bread for himself and three hungry little sisters. I went into an old brick store house where the Marion hotel now stands, or near there and old uncle Jack Woods made my little heart glad when he gave me a pat on my head and something to eat. He has gone to his reward long ago. I shall never forget him.

Oneida Community Silver Ware will strip more silver than any other brand. We have a nice line of these goods. Every piece fully warranted.
